Why The November 2024 Election Is Important, Part 7

Pennsylvania Sen. John Fetterman: "Chill. I refuse to join the Democratic vultures on Biden's shoulder after the debate. No one knows more than me that a rough debate is not the sum total of the person and their record. Chill the f*@& out."

Jacob Middleton, past chair NWD, writes:

1. I agree with Sen. Fetterman (D-PA). (See above)
2. I think Biden should debate Trump again and not worry about stats so much. Anyone loaded down with statistics, no matter the age is going to look lost, because you're constantly going to be worried about getting the number right. You only have 30 - 60 sec, you don't have time for a nuanced response with tons of data. Think Reagan when he said during his debate, "There he goes again." Perfect line for Biden, "There he lies again" or "There goes another lie."
3. He should go out more. More rallies and more interviews. These high profile appearances have more shock value because most people don't see him everyday. It's like seeing a relative or friend every once and awhile. If something is wrong or different with them, you're gonna notice.
4. Stop beating around the age issue and embrace it, like Reagan. Next debate, Biden: "I may be a little older, but unlike Trump I'm not gonna lie to you. I may forget my words, but I'm not gonna forget how Trump overturned Roe v. Wade. I may not be the fastest walker, but I'm also not going to try and overthrow the government unlike Trump."

On June 28, 2024, President Joe Biden said "I know I'm not a young man," he said. "I don't walk as easily as I used to. I don't speak as smoothly as I used to," he said. And, he added, in an obvious allusion to Thursday's widely panned performance in Atlanta — "I don't debate as well as I used to."

But he immediately followed the admission with a spirited denunciation of Trump in which he said, "I know what I do know — I know how to tell the truth! I know right from wrong! And I know how to do this job. I know how to get things done. And I know like millions of Americans know, when you get knocked down, you get back up!" Shortly thereafter, he told the audience "I believe with all my heart and soul I can do this job."
